Dalton dreamed of becoming a doctor. He realized hard work in school could open up the whole world to him and to his desire to help others. He was incredibly intelligent, perceptive, warm and kind. He talked endlessly about wanting to change the world, and he did in his own small way. He not only touched, but changed our lives and those of many others. He believed we all had the possibility to create positive change and showed us how in his actions and words. He will be forever loved and cherished.
